

Let's Share Your RQ Story On Our Website!

Welcome to RQ and thank you for joining in our volunteer activities!

Do you know that RQ has a website?

A number of people have shared their experiences as RQ volunteer on our website. The diverse blogs they have posted give us the up-to-date information at the disaster-struck areas and make us think what we can do for the people there. They may even inspire some people to join in RQ activities.

Currently, the blogs are mostly written by Japanese volunteers, and we are looking to involve more non-Japanese volunteers in blog writing to reflect the diverse backgrounds and viewpoints of RQ volunteers. We believe that RQ activities will be more accomplished with the help of friends from around the world, like yourself and many other non-Japanese volunteers.

So, we'd like to ask for YOUR cooperation! Would you like to write about your RQ volunteering experience to be posted on our website? What you've seen, what you've felt, what you've done, what you've thought... feel free to write anything you as an RQ volunteer wish to share with us and the world!

You can just write it on this sheet of paper and hand it to our administrative staff at the volunteer center, or you can email us at: rqict.all@gmail.com.

We are looking forward to hearing from you!!

Your Name (or Your Nick Name)
Period of Your Activity
Place of Your Activity
(You can also submit photographs/illustrations.)

If you need more space, please continue to write on the back. Thank you for your cooperation.